Missouri Families for Effective Autism Treatment About MO-FEAT

Missouri Families for Effective Autism Treatment (MO-FEAT) was incorporated in 1997 as a Missouri not-for-profit 501(c)3 organization in response to the lack of effective treatment available for individuals living with autism throughout Missouri. MO-FEAT's mission is to support early diagnosis and effective treatment, and to provide advocacy, education, and support for families and the autism community.

Advocacy: Advocating for access to effective autism treatment and services.

Education: Educating families and communities about early diagnosis and effective treatment.

Support: Assisting families in connecting to available resources and supports.

We focus on providing information and resources for Missouri families and receive thousands of calls and emails yearly. Please call us, free of charge, if you have any questions about the information in this directory or need help finding services, supports, or answers to your questions about autism treatment.

MO-FEAT holds parent-professional meetings in St. Louis to provide education and updates on the latest information about evidence-based treatment for autism and other autism-related topics. Please check our website for calendar information on autism-related events throughout Missouri. If you have a school event or other public speaking need, please contact our office to have a MO-FEAT representative discuss autism with your group.

MO-FEAT wishes to thank the many families who submitted resources for this statewide directory. If you would like to see a service provider listed, please contact our office and let us know.

The information in this directory is divided first by service provided and then by the region of the state where that service is available. Our regional map follows the same divisional guidelines of the Missouri Autism Projects. See that under the Department of Mental Health – Autism Project section for further detail.

What is Autism?

Source: The information below is adapted from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. For more information, visit - <http://www.cdc.gov/ncbddd/autism/index.html>.

Autism spectrum disorders (ASDs) are a group of developmental disabilities that can cause significant social, communication and behavioral challenges. People with ASDs handle information in their brain differently than other people. ASDs affect each person in different ways, and can range from very mild to severe – a spectrum of differences. People with ASDs share some similar symptoms, such as problems with social interaction. But there are differences in when the symptoms start, how severe they are, and the exact nature of the symptoms.

Types of ASDs

Prior to 2013, autism was diagnosed using three different types of ASDs which are explained below. These types are now all referred to as Autism Spectrum Disorder (see the section on changes in the diagnosis of autism).

- Autistic Disorder (also called “classic” autism)
This is what most people think of when hearing the word “autism.” People with autistic disorder usually have significant language delays, social and communication challenges, and unusual behaviors and interests. Many people with autistic disorder also have intellectual disability.
- Asperger Syndrome
People with Asperger syndrome usually have some milder symptoms of autistic disorder. They might have social challenges and unusual behaviors and interests. However, they typically do not have problems with language or intellectual disability.
- Pervasive Developmental Disorder – Not Otherwise Specified (PDD-NOS; also called “atypical autism”)
People who meet some of the criteria for autistic disorder or Asperger syndrome, but not all, may be diagnosed with PDD-NOS. People with PDD-NOS usually have fewer and milder symptoms than those with autistic disorder. The symptoms might cause only social and communication challenges.

Signs and Symptoms

ASDs begin before the age of 3 and last throughout a person's life, although symptoms may improve over time. Current evidence from prospective infant sibling studies suggest very little difference between infants developing ASD vs typically even at 6 months. ASD-specific symptoms emerge between 12 & 24 months. A person with an Autism Spectrum Disorder might:

- Not respond to their name by 12 months
- Not point at objects to show interest (point at an airplane flying over) by 14 months
- Not play "pretend" games (pretend to "feed" a doll) by 18 months
- Avoid eye contact and want to be alone
- Have trouble understanding other people's feelings or talking about their own feelings
- Have delayed speech and language skills
- Repeat words or phrases over and over (echolalia)
- Give unrelated answers to questions
- Get upset by minor changes
- Have obsessive interests
- Flap their hands, rock their body, or spin in circles
- Have unusual reactions to the way things sound, smell, taste, look, or feel

Screening and Diagnosis

Developmental Screening

Developmental screening is a short test to tell if children are learning basic skills when they should, or if they might have delays. During developmental screening the doctor might ask the parent some questions or talk and play with the child during an exam to see how she learns, speaks, behaves, and moves. A delay in any of these areas may be a sign of a problem.

Comprehensive Diagnostic Evaluation

The second step of diagnosis is a comprehensive evaluation. This thorough review may include looking at the child's behavior and development and interviewing the parents. It may also include a hearing and vision screening, genetic testing, neurological testing, and other medical testing.

In some cases, the primary care doctor might choose to refer the child and family to a specialist for further assessment and diagnosis. Specialists who can do this type of evaluation include:

- Developmental Pediatricians (doctors who have training in child development and special needs)
- Child Neurologists (doctors who work on the brain, spine, and nerves)
- Child Psychologists or Psychiatrists (doctors who know about the human mind)

Types of Treatments

Of the many different types of treatments, some treatments have more scientific basis than others. Examples of commonly used therapies include:

Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA)

An evidence based treatment approach for people with an Autism Spectrum Disorder is called applied behavior analysis (ABA). ABA has become widely accepted among health care professionals and used in many schools and treatment clinics. ABA encourages positive behaviors and discourages negative behaviors in order to improve a variety of skills. The child's progress is tracked and measured.

Developmental, Individual Differences, Relationship-Based Approach (DIR; also called "Floortime")

Floortime focuses on emotional and relational development (feelings, relationships with caregivers). It also focuses on how the child deals with sights, sounds, and smells.

Treatment and Education of Autistic and related Communication-handicapped Children (TEACCH)

TEACCH uses visual cues to teach skills. For example, picture cards can help teach a child how to get dressed by breaking information down into small steps.

Occupational Therapy

Occupational therapy teaches skills that help the person live as independently as possible. Skills might include dressing, eating, bathing, and relating to people.

Sensory Integration Therapy

Sensory integration therapy helps the person deal with sensory information, like sights, sounds, and smells. Sensory integration therapy could help a child who is bothered by sounds or does not like to be touched.

Speech Therapy

Speech therapy helps to improve the person's communication skills. Some people are able to learn verbal communication skills. For others, using gestures or picture boards is more realistic.

The Picture Exchange Communication System (PECS)

PECS uses picture symbols to teach communication skills. The person is taught to use picture symbols to ask and answer questions and have a conversation.

Changes in the Diagnosis of Autism

The Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders (DSM) is the guidebook used by clinicians and researchers to diagnose mental disorders in children and adults. The guidebook published in 2013, DSM-5, contains significant changes to the criteria currently used to diagnose autism, including incorporating several diagnoses (Autistic Disorder, Asperger's Disorder, Pervasive Developmental Disorder Not Otherwise Specified) into the single diagnosis of Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD). The new criteria for ASD are based on research and expert opinion and are intended to more accurately and consistently diagnose children with autism. These changes in the criteria should now be fully implemented by any physician that would diagnose your child.

If my child has a current diagnosis of Autism Spectrum Disorder, Asperger's Disorder or Pervasive Developmental Disorder Not Otherwise Specified (PDD-NOS), will he/she need to be re-evaluated when the new DSM-5 comes out?

No. Unless you are questioning whether the original diagnosis was correct, a diagnostic re-evaluation is not necessary.

Will the changes affect my child's special education services? Your child may be receiving special education under the special education classification of autism, even though a doctor may have diagnosed your child with Asperger's Disorder or PDD-NOS. As noted above, unless there is a clinical or educational reason for re-evaluation, your child's special education supports and services should remain the same.

Can you tell us a bit more about the new Social (Pragmatic) Communication Disorder diagnosis?

A diagnosis of Social Communication Disorder is only considered for children who have social communication problems, but do not meet the criteria for ASD.

Will the DSM-5 have any influence on the diagnostic tools that physicians or psychologists can use?

Yes, existing diagnostic tools will likely be updated.

Some parents of children with a seizure disorder (epilepsy) are wondering how their child's specific subtype of ASD might fit into these criteria. Please explain.

Clinicians can now specify medical and neurological disorders that may explain a child's ASD diagnosis. Physicians can now specify, for example, whether ASD is associated with a genetic disorder.

Will the presence of other behavioral or psychiatric disorders influence the diagnosis of ASD for my child?

No. The DSM-5 ASD criteria are more flexible. For example, the new criteria permit the diagnosis of both Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and ASD in persons affected by both disorders.

Checklist for Missouri Families

FROM BIRTH through SCHOOL AGE: (If you need to find testing for your child or young adult)

- At any age, seek medical evaluation with a psychologist or a medical provider who specializes in evaluating autism spectrum disorder.
- Ages Birth-3 years: Schedule a developmental evaluation by contacting Missouri First Steps.
- Ages 2 ½ to 3 years: If your child is already receiving services through Missouri First Steps, your team should start planning the transition to Early Childhood Special Education through the school district at age three. The transition process usually begins at age 2 ½. Ask your First Steps Service Coordinator if you have questions.
- Ages 3-5 years: If your child is between ages 3-5 years, contact your school district's Early Childhood Special Education program and ask for developmental screening or evaluation.
- Ages 5 (Kindergarten) and Older: If your child is older than age five, contact the school district in writing to ask for an evaluation. The school will want to meet first to review any existing data about your child. They may also want to try simple interventions in the classroom first to see if this helps your child. If your concerns persist and simple classroom interventions do not help enough, send a letter requesting an evaluation. This testing is one of the steps in the process of qualifying for special education services.

FROM BIRTH through SCHOOL AGE: (If your child already has a diagnosis on the autism spectrum)

- Educate yourself on autism. Many books, websites, and materials are available (see Lending Library Section or the MO-FEAT website for a list of recommended books).
- Learn about the special education process including IEPs (Individualized Education Programs). Attend workshops to learn about your child's right to a free, appropriate, public education (see Parent Education). Prepare for your child's IEP by making a list of your child's strengths and challenges, your concerns, and your own ideas for goals.
- Contact your Regional Office of the Missouri Department of Mental Health (DMH) to determine your child's eligibility for services. Ask for the intake coordinator.
- Access respite care (See Respite Providers). Respite care is specialized child care in your home. Ask your case manager for more information on finding respite providers and funding sources for respite.
- Contact a developmental disability or autism-specific family support group. Call the state's peer support network, Sharing Our Strengths (see Support Groups), and they will match you with another parent for mentorship and support by phone.
- Consider applying for Supplemental Security Income (see Resource Agency Section). Under the age of 18, eligibility is based on parents' income. Over the age of 18, eligibility is based on the income of the person with a disability.
- Encourage your child to be as independent as possible. Give plenty of opportunities for him or her to make decisions and solve problems in order to prepare for life in the community. Plan recreation and social opportunities in the community to develop social interaction skills.

MO-FEAT Statewide Autism Resource Directory

- Begin estate-planning and personal futures-planning (see Estate Planning and Legal Resources). Explore a special needs trust and choose guardians for your child. Keep your will and/or trust up-to-date. Write down your thoughts and wishes about your child's education, employment, socialization, and independent living.
- Consider the needs of other family members. Professional counseling services are available to families dealing with a child's disability as well as sibling supports (see Psychological Services and Sibling Supports).

AT AGE 14 TO 16 (in addition to the previous recommendations)

- Begin to prepare for the Transition Plan, a part of the IEP. The federal law (IDEA 2004) requires transition planning to begin at age 16 as part the IEP process. It is wise to begin planning well before that. Attend workshops on transition to learn more. Contact MPACT, your school district, (see Parent Education) or talk to your child's special education teacher or school counselor for ideas.
- Consider community-based vocational instruction and work experiences during summer and the school year.
- Investigate options for adult employment and independent or supported living opportunities (see Adult Services and Supports).
- Apply for a Missouri ID card or driver's license at a Missouri License Bureau Office at age 16. If your child will not be driving, investigate transportation options in the community. Include transportation training in the IEP to help your child learn to get around independently. Check with your case manager for more information.
- Research college programs that have supports for individuals with special learning needs if your child is eligible for these programs. If your student will not be attending college, explore continuing education programs which support students with disabilities.
- Begin to explore services available through Vocational Rehabilitation before your child leaves school (see Adult Services and Supports). Determination of eligibility can take a while. Invite a representative of DVR to attend your child's IEP. Ask for input and discuss work options. Begin the process toward job development, which can take a year or more. Brainstorm about who you know in the community that might be a possible job lead.

AT AGE 18 (in addition to previous recommendations)

- Apply for SSI and Medicaid if needed. Eligibility is now based on the young adult's income.
- Consult with a lawyer about guardianship, conservatorship, and alternative legal options you will need to consider before your child reaches age 18. The Missouri Planning Council and the Missouri Developmental Disability Resource Center both have information on alternatives to guardianship (see Resource Agencies).
- Make sure your family member has registered to vote.
- Check on health insurance coverage for your child. Some insurance companies require an application for a dependent child with a disability before the age of 19.

AT AGE 20 (or year of leaving school - in addition to previous recommendations)

- Discuss with your Regional Office case manager which adult service agencies your family member with autism might utilize. Contact those agencies to begin the enrollment process.
- Continue to plan for future living arrangements, either supported or independent. Increase independence through socialization opportunities.

IEP Frequently Asked Questions

What is the difference between a Medical Diagnosis of Autism Spectrum Disorder and an Education Determination of Autism?

There are many differences between a medical diagnosis and an educational determination, or school evaluation, of a disability. A medical diagnosis is made by a physician based on an assessment of symptoms and diagnostic tests. A medical diagnosis of autism spectrum disorder, for instance, is most frequently made by a physician according to the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual (DSM-5), released 2013) of the American Psychological Association. This manual guides physicians in diagnosing autism spectrum disorder according to a specific number of symptoms.

An educational determination is made by a multidisciplinary evaluation team of various school professionals. The evaluation results are reviewed by a team of qualified professionals and the parents to determine whether a student qualifies for special education and related services under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA).

A brief observation in a single setting cannot present a true picture of someone's abilities and behaviors. The person's developmental history and input from parents, caregivers and/or teachers are important components of an accurate diagnosis.

If a parent requests an evaluation, how long does the school have to comply with or reject the request?

If there is a reason to suspect a disability, a Review of Existing Data is conducted within 30 calendar days of parental referral. This starts the evaluation process. If the school refuses to conduct the evaluation, a Notice of Action – Refused must be provided within 30 calendar days of parent referral. If an evaluation determines eligibility, the school must conduct an Eligibility Determination Meeting within 60 calendar days of receipt of consent for the initial evaluation. For eligible students, an IEP must be developed within 30 calendar days of the eligibility determination.

Source: Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education

My school denied an evaluation or services due to my child's passing grades, is that legal?

No. IDEA says just the opposite, a child does not have to fail to be eligible for special education services. According to IDEA regulation 300.101(c), the school must provide special education to a child with a disability "even though the child has not failed or been retained in a course or grade, and is advancing from grade to grade." A parent or school staff member may refer a child for an evaluation. To determine if a child is eligible for special education and related services, the school is required to do a comprehensive psycho educational evaluation.

Source: <http://www.wrightslaw.com>

If a parent requests an IEP meeting, does the meeting have to be held within 10 days?

IDEA, the federal law, and implementing regulations do not include a timeline for an IEP meeting when parents request a meeting to review or revise their child's IEP. There are timelines relating to evaluations for special education and eligibility meetings.

What happens if I need to cancel/postpone an IEP meeting?

The school district must hold an IEP meeting at a mutually agreeable time and place for both parties, unless the parents choose not to attend. The school district must inform parents/guardians of a meeting ten (10) calendar days before the meeting unless the parent/guardian waives that timeframe. If you cannot attend a scheduled meeting, it is recommended that you put your request to reschedule in writing and include your intention to attend the meeting at mutually agreeable time. For many school districts, after two documented attempts to hold an IEP meeting, the meeting can be held without the parents being present.

Can the school hold an IEP meeting without parents present?

A meeting may be conducted without a parent in attendance if the public agency is unable to convince the parents that they should attend after two documented attempts. In this case, the public agency must keep a record of its attempts to arrange a mutually agreed on time and place, such as—

- (1) Detailed records of telephone calls made or attempted and the results of those calls;
- (2) Copies of correspondence sent to the parents and any responses received; and
- (3) Detailed records of visits made to the parent's home or place of employment and the results of those visits.

Source: IDEA Section §300.322

Can I record an IEP Team meeting?

The use of recorders at IEP meetings is not addressed by either IDEA or regulations. Recording of IEP meetings can be prohibited by the written policy of each school district, but must not interfere with parent participation as prescribed by the ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act). Please contact your individual school district for more information.

How can I best prepare for an IEP meeting?

Prior to the initial IEP meeting, be sure to do your own research about the programs, placement options, related services and supplementary aids that may be appropriate to meet your child's needs. Consult some of these helpful sources of information including:

- ✓ Local or state parent organizations
- ✓ Parents with children who have similar needs
- ✓ Special education lawyers
- ✓ Internet resources
- ✓ Special education professionals in your area

Prepare a blueprint and/or draft of your child's IEP including goals, programs, placement options, related services and supplementary aids. You can obtain an IEP form from your school or school district.

I don't agree with the school's proposed IEP. What should I do?

You have the right to disagree with the school about your child's needs, appropriate services, educational placements, and other issues. Parent Consent: Before the school can place your child in a special education program for the first time, you must give your informed consent. If you disagree with the school's proposed program, you should not consent to the IEP. To eliminate misunderstandings, always describe your concerns and objections in writing. You can negotiate, and try to resolve your dispute informally through the IEP process. Request another IEP meeting to discuss other solutions.

Write a "Letter to the Stranger" that describes your child's history and your concerns. Discuss your concerns with the school members of the team. Try to reach an agreement. The agreement may be temporary.

For example, you and the school may agree to try a program or placement for a specified period of time, and meet a few weeks later to discuss how your child is doing.

What is a PLAAFP?

Under IDEA 2004, the IEP must include "a statement of the child's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance ...". The Present Levels of Academic Achievement and Functional Performance are objective data that describe what your child knows and is able to do. They describe your child's strengths, challenges, and needs. The present levels include baseline data. Sometimes Present Levels are referred to as the PLAAFP. Some people refer to the Present Levels as the PLOP (Present Levels of Performance) or the PLEP (Present Levels of Educational Performance). However, IDEA 2004 requires that the IEP include a statement of present levels of academic achievement and functional performance. The term "performance" describes what your child can do. The Present Levels describe your child's unique needs that result from his disability. The Present Levels are the foundation for everything else in the IEP.

MPACT - Missouri's Parent Training and Information Center

What is MPACT?

Missouri Parents Act (MPACT) is a non-profit that serves children with disabilities, their families, and communities throughout the state. MPACT has served as Missouri's federally-funded Parent Training and Information Center since 1988. MPACT also works in collaboration with, and receives funding from, the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE).

MPACT's primary goal is to assist parents in their effort to effectively advocate for their children's educational rights and services. MPACT staff and volunteers are located throughout Missouri and work with public and private agencies, parent groups, professional organizations and advocacy groups to achieve that goal. MPACT is committed to excellence as we provide FREE services and assistance to parents, families, and youth.

Parents of children with disabilities face challenges every day that other parents don't have. It is often difficult to navigate the maze of special services and create a plan that will help children achieve successful outcomes through education. But how do we reach these goals? How do we know what choices to make for and with our children? MPACT's staff, of which consists primarily of parent or family members of children with disabilities, can help to answer some of your questions.

In January 2015, MPACT was one of only seven states to be awarded a Rehabilitation Services Association grant. The grant supports our STELLAR Project which provides transition information and resources to young adults and families

The Department of Mental Health (DMH) Division of Developmental Disabilities

Why do I Need the Department of Developmental Disabilities?

The Department of Mental Health – Division of Developmental Disabilities offers services and supports for individuals with autism and other developmental disorders in Missouri. It is important to contact your local Regional Office of the Division of Developmental Disabilities to see if your family member qualifies for these services. Also, you may need to be enrolled with the Regional Office in order to receive services from other agencies that receive Department of Mental Health funding.

How do you know if you are eligible for DMH services?

Eligibility is determined by what is known as a functional assessment as opposed to a specific diagnosis. A developmental disability is a disability which is attributable to cognitive delay, cerebral palsy, epilepsy, head injury, autism, or a learning disability related to a brain dysfunction, or any other mental or physical or mental impairment which occurs before age 22. It must be determined that this disability is likely to continue indefinitely and that it results in a substantial functional limitation in two or more of the following six areas of major life activities: self-care; receptive and expressive language development and use; learning; self-direction; capacity for independent living or economic self-sufficiency; and mobility. - Source <http://dmh.mo.gov/dd/facilities/eligibility.html>

What does the Regional Office do?

Staff members at the local Regional Offices perform these duties:

- Determine whether a person is eligible for services (Intake).
- Support Coordination may be provided by a Regional Office or a Targeted Case Management (TCM) entity. They do this by visiting with families at least once a year to develop an Individual Support Plan, monitoring services by calling the individual or family quarterly, and linking families with appropriate resources.
- Support Coordinators from a Regional Office or a TCM entity may assist in trying to access funding for services to address unmet needs that are documented in the Individual Support Plan.
- Perform reassessments at ages 5, 18, and 22 to reevaluate individual's eligibility for services.
- Support Coordinators or representatives from a TCM entity can be invited to Individualized Education Program (IEP) meetings with the school to assist you if necessary.

The Division of Developmental Disabilities provides services and supports in the individual's home, in the community, and in licensed residential centers.

What is Support Coordination?

Every individual who is eligible for Regional Office services may receive support coordination, also called targeted case management. Support Coordinators help people with disabilities and their families find the services and supports they need. They may assist with completing paperwork if needed and may attend school IEP meetings if the family invites them. The individual or family will work with the Support Coordinator to develop an Individual Support Plan.

What is Person-Centered Planning?

Person-centered planning is a process used to determine the goals, services, and supports that an individual with a developmental disability needs in order to function as independently as possible. Plans are based on a PON (Priority of Need) score, thus parents should include ALL their child's needs in the person-centered, Individual Support Plan.

Who should you contact if you believe you or a member in my family is eligible for services?

There are 6 regional offices located throughout the state in the following areas: Central (Columbia), Kansas City, St. Louis (North & South), Sikeston, and Springfield with satellite offices in Albany, Hannibal, Joplin, Kirksville, Poplar Bluff, and Rolla. Visit the DMH website for additional locations. See the next page for those counties covered by these regional offices.

Missouri's Autism Projects

The Department of Mental Health's Division of Developmental Disabilities funds five regional autism projects that collectively provide services to approximately 3,500 families statewide. The first project was established in 1991 after families in rural Missouri approached legislators to ask for autism-specific family support. As a result of these efforts, authorities were established and funding was secured for family-centered services for individuals with autism spectrum disorders throughout the state. Parent Advisory Committees (PACs) were formed to represent and oversee each autism project and to make recommendations for service needs. Each regional autism project Parent Advisory Committee elects members to sit on the Missouri Parent Advisory Committee on Autism, serving as a statewide liaison for the regional committees and the division.

The Missouri Parent Advisory Committee on Autism has two parent representatives from each of the regional Autism Projects below and one self-advocate:

Senate Bill 40 (SB40) Boards

You may find assistance through your county’s Senate Bill (SB) 40 Board. The SB40 Board is a source of funding and services at the local level for people with developmental disabilities. These Boards are funded through special tax levies passed to benefit people with developmental disabilities. Some counties use these tax levies to purchase services for their residents through sheltered workshops, residential facilities, or related services, for the support, care or employment of persons who have a developmental disability. Other county boards provide their own services and use the funding to establish and pay for these services. Many county board agencies also contract with their local Regional Office to provide various services including residential supports, day habilitation, personal assistant hours, and job coaching.

Over 80 counties in Missouri and St. Louis City currently have a tax in place to support a SB40 Board in their county. Many of those counties belong to the state organization of SB40 boards, the Missouri Association of County Developmental Disabilities Services (MACDDS). Website: www.macdds.org

Some counties have other names for their SB40 Boards. Here are some examples:

St. Charles County	Developmental Disability Resource Board (DDRB)
St. Louis County	Productive Living Board (PLB)
St. Louis City	St. Louis Office for Developmental Disability Resources (STLDD)
Kansas City (Jackson Co)	Developmental Disability Services of Jackson County (EITAS)

Crisis Intervention

In case of emergency, call 9-1-1. Always take threats of suicide seriously!

What are the Access Crisis Intervention phone lines?

The Access Crisis Intervention (ACI) phone lines are staffed by mental health professionals who can respond to your crisis 24 hours per day and 7 days per week. They will talk with you about your crisis and help you determine what further help you might need. They may refer you to other resources or services within your community to provide you with more help and ongoing care. All calls are strictly confidential. The staff who answer these phones may or may not know much about autism, but they should know about resources in your area.

Community Mental Health Centers

How does the Missouri Mental Health System work?

The Missouri Department of Mental Health (DMH) has two departments that are an important source of help for people who have autism and people who have mental illnesses – the Division of Developmental Disabilities, and the Division of Behavioral Health.

What does the Division of Behavioral Health do?

It is common for individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorders to have mental health issues including depression, anxiety, obsessive-compulsive disorder, bipolar disorder, and other psychiatric diagnoses. Some people need to look for extra help beyond the expertise of the Division of Developmental Disabilities staff. If your family member with autism has a serious mental illness, he or she might also qualify for services through the Department of Mental Health’s Division of Behavioral Health. Services might include psychology, psychiatry, counseling, residential services, in-home supports, or other types of help.

If you are experiencing an emergency, call 9-1-1.

Always take threats of suicide seriously and take action.

Contact the Community Mental Health Center for follow-up care after the crisis.

MO-FEAT Statewide Autism Resource Directory

Community Mental Health Centers

Who do I call for help?

- If you already have a case manager, contact that person first for help.
- If you do not have a case manager, contact your local Regional Office first to find out whether your family member with autism might be eligible for services through the Division of Developmental Disabilities.
- If the person with autism also has a serious mental illness, call your local Community Mental Health Center to find out whether your family member might also be eligible for services through the Division of Comprehensive Psychiatric Services.
- If you are not sure who to call, call your local Regional Office and ask for help.

If you are unable to find the help you need, call the Office of Autism Services toll-free at 1-800-207-9329 and ask for help.

What are Community Mental Health Centers?

Community Mental Health Centers provide psychological and psychiatric care for people with mental health issues. If a person with autism also has a diagnosis of a mental illness, they may be able to access mental health services through their local Community Mental Health Centers (CMHC). Call the Intake Department to ask about screening for eligibility.

The CMHCs do accept Medicaid and also have sliding fee scales for uninsured persons. The staff at the centers may or may not have training or experience in working with people who have autism spectrum disorders.

For information on a CMHC in your area, visit <http://dmh.mo.gov/mentalillness/helpinfo/county.html> for an office close to you. For more educational information on mental health issues, visit your local NAMI (National Alliance on Mental Illness) website at <http://www.nami.org/Local-NAMI?state=MO>.

Guidelines for Choosing ABA Providers

What do the Credential Letters mean behind the names of behavior analysts?

- BCBA - Board Certified Behavior Analyst. Same, but with a Master's Degree and additional coursework and supervised experience. This is the highest level of certification specific to ABA. The letters BCBA-D indicate a Board Certified Behavior Analyst who has a doctoral degree.
- BCABA - Board Certified Associate Behavior Analyst. Requires a Bachelor's degree, specialized coursework, supervised experience, and a certification exam. This is not a guarantee of quality but indicates a significant level of training and experience.

The new law requires everyone who intends to practice behavior analysis to apply for a state license. It does not mean that you only have to have a license if you are billing insurance for ABA. Therefore, it applies to anyone who is practicing behavior analysis (with an exemption for public school staff implementing IDEA and 504 Plans, and students doing ABA practicum).

How do you choose a qualified provider?

- Request a resume and references from the provider.
- Interview the ABA provider before hiring them.
- Ask other parents/professionals for recommendations. MO-FEAT can connect you with other parents in your area, or you can pose questions to parents through the A-List, an online support group for parents (if interested, contact the MO-FEAT office). See below for questions to ask other families.
- Certification and licensure for behavior analysts (both BCBA and BCABAs) has been required in Missouri as of January 1, 2012. ABA providers may voluntarily pursue certification through the Behavior Analyst Certification Board (BACB). Certified providers must adhere to a code of ethics. You can find out if a provider is certified by searching the BACB website at www.bacb.com. Click on Certificant Registry.
- Certification only means a person has met the minimum criteria to practice as a behavior analyst. It does not guarantee quality or effectiveness. Associate Behavior Analysts (BCABAs) must be supervised by a fully certified Behavior Analyst (BCBA). BCABAs being hired to run and supervise ABA programs should have experience and training on how to supervise others, and how to develop appropriate programs.

MO-FEAT Statewide Autism Resource Directory

Guidelines for Choosing ABA Providers

Questions to Ask Other Families

Other parents can be a great source of referrals. You may want to specifically ask these questions:

Do you feel that the ABA Provider,

- Has worked well with other children of the same age and learning style as yours?
- Accepts input from the parent?
- Works well with school staff and other members of the child's team?
- Is reliable and punctual?
- Responds promptly to mail or phone calls?
- Handles billing and paperwork well?

Signs of a Good Behavior Analyst Checklist [Missouri Association of Behavior Analysis (MO-ABA)]

- Can describe the exact purpose of an intervention, prerequisite skills necessary, and how the intervention will be conducted whether the focus is to increase or decrease a selected behavior or skill.
- Uses data collection before, during, and after an intervention to measure the effects and reviews data regularly to determine whether progress was made or changes in interventions are necessary.
- Only promotes interventions that are data driven and research based.
- Has formal education in the field of behavior analysis, abides by the ethical code for behavior analysts, and has experienced supervision/mentoring in designing, implementing, and supervising behavior analytic interventions (see www.bacb.org for certification requirements).
- Attends regular professional development in the field of behavior analysis and stays current on research and literature.
- Focuses on both increasing new adaptive skills (e.g., functional communication, self-care, social skills, etc.) and decreasing maladaptive behaviors (e.g., noncompliance, over-selectivity, etc.) to promote individual client's quality of life).
- Determines client needs or goals from data collected through an initial assessment, then breaks skills down into smaller component skills, focusing on skills necessary for basic functioning first.
- Utilizes multiple instructional methods under the scope of behavior analysis based on the needs of the client (e.g., discrete trial teaching, incidental teaching, task analysis and chaining, embedding trials in ongoing activities, etc.).
- Uses clearly defined instructions, prompts, and reinforcement to teach new skills.
- Focuses on staff and/or family training to promote consistent implementation of interventions and generalization/maintenance of skills.

The Night Off Program is a student-run program that provides parents of children with autism a "night off". Night Off understands that caring for a child or children with autism full-time can be extremely demanding and that qualified sitters can be hard to find. This is why, in addition to Autism awareness and education efforts and activities, the Night Off program is dedicated to giving these parents a well-deserved break.

Lindamood-Bell is dedicated to helping children and adults learn to their potential. In order to be a proficient learner, in any subject, it is critical that an individual is able to efficiently process information, either by reading or listening. Our research-validated programs address the underlying skills necessary for independence and self-correction. For nearly 30 years, our intensive, one-to-one, process-based instruction, based on an individual's learning needs, has been used to strengthen the sensory-cognitive functions needed for reading and comprehension. Our instruction has been proven successful for individuals with learning challenges, including autism spectrum disorders, dyslexia, hyperlexia, and ADHD.

Miriam: The Learning Disability Experts is the St. Louis region's oldest and most comprehensive resource for children with complex learning disabilities. Through its two programs, Miriam School and Miriam Learning Center, the organization serves 500 children annually throughout the region. For more than 50 years, Miriam School has offered an independent special education school program designed for bright children ages Pre K - 8th grade with learning challenges. More recently, the Miriam Learning Center was established to support children ages 3 - 18 through a range of services, including evaluations, tutoring, occupational, speech/language and music therapies, social skills training and in-school supports. No matter where families are in their journey, Miriam's goal is to identify needs and provide solutions that help students who are struggling in school unlock their potential. Miriam School offers full-day education and summer programs for students, age pre-K to 8th grade with average to above average intelligence who display complex learning disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome. Miriam Learning Center offers assessments, therapies, tutoring, social skills and recreation classes, in-school supports and summer camps for children with average cognitive abilities who have learning and social disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome.

Miriam: The Learning Disability Experts is the St. Louis region's oldest and most comprehensive resource for children with complex learning disabilities. Through its two programs, Miriam School and Miriam Learning Center, the organization serves 500 children annually throughout the region. For more than 50 years, Miriam School has offered an independent special education school program designed for bright children ages Pre K - 8th grade with learning challenges. More recently, the Miriam Learning Center was established to support children ages 3 - 18 through a range of services, including evaluations, tutoring, occupational, speech/language and music therapies, social skills training and in-school supports. No matter where families are in their journey, Miriam's goal is to identify needs and provide solutions that help students who are struggling in school unlock their potential. Miriam School offers full-day education and summer programs for students, age pre-K to 8th grade with average to above average intelligence who display complex learning disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome. Miriam Learning Center offers assessments, therapies, tutoring, social skills and recreation classes, in-school supports and summer camps for children with average cognitive abilities who have learning and social disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome.

The Missouri Developmental Disabilities Council (MODDC) is established by state and federal law and is federally funded to plan, advocate for, and give advice concerning programs and services for persons with DD that will increase their opportunities for independence, productivity, and integration into communities. The MODDC does not provide direct services but does provide training opportunities such as Partners in Policymaking. The Council participates in changing systems through advocacy efforts that lead to policy change or development. Partners in Policymaking is a leadership training program for parents of children with developmental disabilities and adults who have DD. The training program teaches leadership skills and techniques to develop positive partnerships with elected officials, school personnel and other individuals who make policy decisions about services that you and/or your family use. Graduates of this program work to change systems that affect families who have a member who has a developmental disability.

Miriam: The Learning Disability Experts is the St. Louis region's oldest and most comprehensive resource for children with complex learning disabilities. Through its two programs, Miriam School and Miriam Learning Center, the organization serves 500 children annually throughout the region. For more than 50 years, Miriam School has offered an independent special education school program designed for bright children ages Pre K - 8th grade with learning challenges. More recently, the Miriam Learning Center was established to support children ages 3 - 18 through a range of services, including evaluations, tutoring, occupational, speech/language and music therapies, social skills training and in-school supports. No matter where families are in their journey, Miriam's goal is to identify needs and provide solutions that help students who are struggling in school unlock their potential. Miriam School offers full-day education and summer programs for students, age pre-K to 8th grade with average to above average intelligence who display complex learning disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome. Miriam Learning Center offers assessments, therapies, tutoring, social skills and recreation classes, in-school supports and summer camps for children with average cognitive abilities who have learning and social disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome.

The Missouri Developmental Disabilities Council (MODDC) is established by state and federal law and is federally funded to plan, advocate for, and give advice concerning programs and services for persons with DD that will increase their opportunities for independence, productivity, and integration into communities. The MODDC does not provide direct services but does provide training opportunities such as Partners in Policymaking. The Council participates in changing systems through advocacy efforts that lead to policy change or development. Partners in Policymaking is a leadership training program for parents of children with developmental disabilities and adults who have DD. The training program teaches leadership skills and techniques to develop positive partnerships with elected officials, school personnel and other individuals who make policy decisions about services that you and/or your family use. Graduates of this program work to change systems that affect families who have a member who has a developmental disability.

The Missouri Developmental Disabilities Council (MODDC) is established by state and federal law and is federally funded to plan, advocate for, and give advice concerning programs and services for persons with DD that will increase their opportunities for independence, productivity, and integration into communities. The MODDC does not provide direct services but does provide training opportunities such as Partners in Policymaking. The Council participates in changing systems through advocacy efforts that lead to policy change or development. Partners in Policymaking is a leadership training program for parents of children with developmental disabilities and adults who have DD. The training program teaches leadership skills and techniques to develop positive partnerships with elected officials, school personnel and other individuals who make policy decisions about services that you and/or your family use. Graduates of this program work to change systems that affect families who have a member who has a developmental disability.

Easter Seals Midwest (Life Skills | TouchPoint Autism Services) is a team of autism experts focused on supporting individuals and families throughout their lifetimes. We recently joined the Easter Seals Network and we serve more than 3,000 individuals on the spectrum across Missouri. We are the oldest and largest provider of autism services in the state. Our professionals provide services based on the methods of Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA). We provide many services for treatment of the individual and support for his or her family (services vary depending on location). Depending on the county of residence and having an open case with Missouri Department of Mental Health, many services are provided at no charge to the family.

Miriam: The Learning Disability Experts is the St. Louis region's oldest and most comprehensive resource for children with complex learning disabilities. Through its two programs, Miriam School and Miriam Learning Center, the organization serves 500 children annually throughout the region. For more than 50 years, Miriam School has offered an independent special education school program designed for bright children ages Pre K - 8th grade with learning challenges. More recently, the Miriam Learning Center was established to support children ages 3 - 18 through a range of services, including evaluations, tutoring, occupational, speech/language and music therapies, social skills training and in-school supports. No matter where families are in their journey, Miriam's goal is to identify needs and provide solutions that help students who are struggling in school unlock their potential. Miriam School offers full-day education and summer programs for students, age pre-K to 8th grade with average to above average intelligence who display complex learning disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome. Miriam Learning Center offers assessments, therapies, tutoring, social skills and recreation classes, in-school supports and summer camps for children with average cognitive abilities who have learning and social disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome.

Miriam: The Learning Disability Experts is the St. Louis region's oldest and most comprehensive resource for children with complex learning disabilities. Through its two programs, Miriam School and Miriam Learning Center, the organization serves 500 children annually throughout the region. For more than 50 years, Miriam School has offered an independent special education school program designed for bright children ages Pre K - 8th grade with learning challenges. More recently, the Miriam Learning Center was established to support children ages 3 - 18 through a range of services, including evaluations, tutoring, occupational, speech/language and music therapies, social skills training and in-school supports. No matter where families are in their journey, Miriam's goal is to identify needs and provide solutions that help students who are struggling in school unlock their potential. Miriam School offers full-day education and summer programs for students, age pre-K to 8th grade with average to above average intelligence who display complex learning disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome. Miriam Learning Center offers assessments, therapies, tutoring, social skills and recreation classes, in-school supports and summer camps for children with average cognitive abilities who have learning and social disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome.

Miriam: The Learning Disability Experts is the St. Louis region's oldest and most comprehensive resource for children with complex learning disabilities. Through its two programs, Miriam School and Miriam Learning Center, the organization serves 500 children annually throughout the region. For more than 50 years, Miriam School has offered an independent special education school program designed for bright children ages Pre K - 8th grade with learning challenges. More recently, the Miriam Learning Center was established to support children ages 3 - 18 through a range of services, including evaluations, tutoring, occupational, speech/language and music therapies, social skills training and in-school supports. No matter where families are in their journey, Miriam's goal is to identify needs and provide solutions that help students who are struggling in school unlock their potential. Miriam School offers full-day education and summer programs for students, age pre-K to 8th grade with average to above average intelligence who display complex learning disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome. Miriam Learning Center offers assessments, therapies, tutoring, social skills and recreation classes, in-school supports and summer camps for children with average cognitive abilities who have learning and social disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome.

Miriam: The Learning Disability Experts is the St. Louis region's oldest and most comprehensive resource for children with complex learning disabilities. Through its two programs, Miriam School and Miriam Learning Center, the organization serves 500 children annually throughout the region. For more than 50 years, Miriam School has offered an independent special education school program designed for bright children ages Pre K - 8th grade with learning challenges. More recently, the Miriam Learning Center was established to support children ages 3 - 18 through a range of services, including evaluations, tutoring, occupational, speech/language and music therapies, social skills training and in-school supports. No matter where families are in their journey, Miriam's goal is to identify needs and provide solutions that help students who are struggling in school unlock their potential. Miriam School offers full-day education and summer programs for students, age pre-K to 8th grade with average to above average intelligence who display complex learning disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome. Miriam Learning Center offers assessments, therapies, tutoring, social skills and recreation classes, in-school supports and summer camps for children with average cognitive abilities who have learning and social disabilities, including high-functioning autism or Asperger's syndrome.

FF4A is an autism support group designed for all families, caregivers, and educators affected by autism as well as the individuals with a diagnosis on the spectrum. Family & Friends 4 Autism was created to provide encouragement, education, and empowerment. We do provide free care during the meeting if needed and siblings are welcome. We also plan outings and events which include and benefit those on the spectrum. Each month we explore and discuss different topics related to parenting and caring for our children and loved ones on the spectrum.

Easter Seals Midwest (Life Skills | TouchPoint Autism Services) is a team of autism experts focused on supporting individuals and families throughout their lifetimes. We recently joined the Easter Seals Network and we serve more than 3,000 individuals on the spectrum across Missouri. We are the oldest and largest provider of autism services in the state. Our professionals provide services based on the methods of Applied

Behavior Analysis (ABA). We provide many services for treatment of the individual and support for his or her family (services vary depending on location). Depending on the county of residence and having an open case with

Missouri Department of Mental Health, many services are provided at no charge to the family.

Our Mission

To provide education, advocacy, and support for families and the autism community and to promote early diagnosis and effective autism treatment.

Our Vision

To become the premier organization in Missouri providing information and support to families and the autism community.

Objectives

- Educate families and communities about early diagnosis and effective treatment of autism spectrum disorders.
- Assist families in connecting to available resources and supports. Advocate for access to effective autism treatment and services.
- Network within the autism community to develop partnerships to better serve the autism community.

Services

- Provide parent support and informational meetings on issues concerning home- and school-based intervention and identification of autism spectrum disorders.
- Phone support for families on a wide variety of issues.
- Publish an extensive statewide resource directory as well as literature on autism and effective treatment.
- Participate in advocacy efforts at the state level in order to help guide autism policy in our state.
- iCan Shine Bicycle Camp giving individuals with disabilities the chance to ride a bike for the first time.

DD Resources is a publicly funded agency that distributes funds to service providers for community-based services to St. Louis city residents who have a developmental disability and desire to remain in their home and community.

Additionally, DD Resources operates the four following programs:

Education Advocacy & Training assists parents and teachers to ensure students with developmental disabilities in the City of St. Louis receive an appropriate education.

Project CaseFind is a community outreach effort to provide short-term case management to individuals while they complete the process to register with the St. Louis Regional Office.

Targeted Case Management provides long-term case management to individuals with developmental disabilities. Services consist of, but are not limited to, completing entitlement applications and/or making referrals to community resources.

Horizon Club is a 24-hour drop-in center for people without homes.

Mission:

To ensure individuals with developmental disabilities in the City of St. Louis have quality services, choices and full inclusion.

Bill & Virginia Leffen CENTER FOR AUTISM

Discovering internal strengths to achieve life-long success

- IN-FACILITY RESPITE: A safe alternative for your child's care along with independent skills development instruction
- IN-HOME RESPITE: Children develop appropriate behaviors for home and community living along with independent living and social skills
- DAY TREATMENT: Children ages 3 to 21 learn to modify behaviors, improve communication skills and develop social skills so they can return to and function in a less restrictive school environment. High school classrooms focus on life skills and instruction in core subject areas.
- RESIDENTIAL TREATMENT: Children ages 5 to 18 experience a variety of treatment modalities in a homelike setting from highly qualified staff and 24/7 intensive care.

All services are available on Great Circle's campus in Webster Groves, Missouri. Day treatment is available in St. James.

Education programs are approved by Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, Illinois State Board of Education

Our Autism Services

- ◇ Functional Behavioral Assessments (FBA) focus on identifying the function of specific behaviors and developing behavior intervention plans for the individual being supported.
- ◇ Behavior Plan Development is a formal strategy developed to address the behaviors of concern, help everyone involved know how to respond to the problems, and teach the person being supported an appropriate replacement behavior.
- ◇ Direct Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) services are provided in the home, community, and on site. A strong emphasis is placed on the family's capacity to support their family member with challenging behaviors.

Early Start Denver Model

For toddlers, ages 4 to 36 months old, who have been diagnosed with an autism spectrum disorder. It includes an individualized play-based assessment to help a team of certified therapists develop goals and design a program to meet the unique needs of each child.

The curriculum is based on principles from the Early Start Denver Model (ESDM).

Social Skills

Friendship Fusion is a program designed to help children ages 7 to 12-years-old work together as a team, while learning social skills and developing friendships. Areas of focus include: engaging in conversations, body language, problem solving, and building confidence.

Coming in Summer 2015, social skills classes for children ages 3 to 7-years-old.

Partners In Policymaking

What is “Partners”?

Partners is a leadership training program designed for self-advocates and parents of young children with developmental disabilities.

Based on a national model, the overall goal of Partners is to develop productive partnerships between people who need and use services and those in a position to make policy and law.

Partners are able to accomplish this by having opportunities to meet and talk to national leaders in the field of developmental disabilities and become acquainted and connected with organizations, opportunities and possibilities.

The program provides information and the development of skills around current issues, state-of-the-art approaches, as well as policymaking and legislative processes at local, state and national levels.
